"Where words come to life"

Dear Parents,

My name is Dana Lehman and I am a local author. I write children's books that teach life lessons. My mother-in-law, Judy Lehman, is my illustrator. We are proud to announce that we are recipients of the Mom's Choice Award. The Mom's Choice Award is a competition that recognizes family friendly media and products. Adventures at Walnut Grove: A Lesson about Teasing, I DOUBLE Dare You! and Remember When... are all recipients of this prestigious award.

On March 11th, I will be visiting your child's school. I will be reading my first book, Adventures at Walnut Grove: A Lesson about Teasing to students in kindergarten through second grade. We will discuss teasing, treating others as you would like to be treated, diversity, trying your best, and the importance of practice. After the presentation, your child will be making some crafts that go along with the story.

Students in third through fifth grade will learn about the writing and publishing process. I will also be reading I DOUBLE Dare You! to students. After the story, we will be discussing peer pressure, being responsible for your own actions, and the importance of practice. I feel that books are a wonderful opportunity to discuss these issues with children.

I am offering $5.00 off the retail price of all four hardcover books (tax is included in the price). If you are interested in purchasing a copy for your child, please fill out the order form, and send it back to school on or before March 10th. I will bring books with me on the day of the presentation.

Best regards,

Dana Lehman
